

BRIDGING THE DIVIDE REDUCING INEQUITY THROUGH EDUCATION

VIRTUAL ANNUAL MEETING
September 8 - 10, 2021

WELCOME FROM THE PRESIDENT

As educators we teach a variety of topics in psychiatry to a wide range of learners: undergraduate and medical students; residents and fellows; faculty psychiatrists and other mental health providers; patients, families, and communities. Topics include mental health diagnosis, treatment, prevention, and health promotion, as well as advocacy and leadership. Importantly, our patients and their families, students and other learners, and colleagues represent a remarkable diversity of identities, including gender, race, ethnicity, sexuality, religion, and more. We can all be more aware and educated, in how these affect the individual experience, and better bridge inequities. The breadth of issues and learners we encounter allows us a unique opportunity to raise awareness of inequities in medical education and mental health and in doing so, be part of the needed change to improve health and promote wellness at the individual and societal levels. This year's keynote speaker is Ruth Shim, MD, who is the Luke & Grace Kim Professor in Cultural Psychiatry and Director of Cultural Psychiatry at UC Davis. Dr. Shim is widely published and serves on several editorial boards JAMA Psychiatry and Community Mental Health Journal. Her research focuses on mental health disparities and inequities. Please take a moment to read her full bio here to learn more about her well-versed background in psychiatry and public health including her outstanding professional community health experiences. Her keynote address will help educate us on our opportunities and inspire us to make a difference. Our amazing Program Planning Committee, led by Michael Peterson, MD, PhD, is planning an array of exciting virtual opportunities. The program will include live and pre-recorded workshops, posters, our ever-popular Master Educator program (which has expanded to now include a Spring offering!), our Career Development and Poster lunch sessions. There will be great opportunities to meet and greet one another through several planned virtual social events! This year we have added a Presidential Plenary on Friday, September 10th from 10am-11:15am. Our diverse panel of experts will discuss various ways to reduce inequity through education. We will also be celebrating 50(+1) wonderful years of AAP throughout our Annual Meeting. Even though we cannot literally "linger in the hallways" to socialize outside the workshops, we are planning the next best thing with plenty of social opportunities for our Annual Meeting attendees through WHOVA and other virtual platforms/technology.

We are forward to seeing you online this September!
